

FRIENDS OF ROSIE CHILDREN'S CANCER RESEARCH FUND

REGISTERED CHARITY NO. 1046278

CONDITIONS OF AWARD OF GRANTS

1. Grants awarded by the Friends of Rosie Children's Cancer Research Fund (FOR) are subject to these Conditions of Award. FOR reserves the right to change the conditions from time to time.
2. FOR grants are intended primarily to help initiate new research in children's cancer or to supplement ongoing programmes of research. Grants are awarded for one year with the possibility of renewal for the second year upon receipt of a satisfactory progress report.
3. The Trustees require the research and the application of the grant to be properly supervised at all times. The Trustees will evaluate the outcome of the research.
4. FOR reserves the right to terminate a grant at any point without notice. In such a case FOR will reimburse the host institution for expenditure properly incurred under the grant.
5. Applications must include a detailed statement of the proposed research (purpose, background, plan and justification of expenditure), financial details, CV's of the applicants and named senior research workers, a statement of acceptance of these Terms and Conditions and information on any other grant awarded or pending which relates to the subject of the present proposal.
6. FOR will not pay overheads on research grants in accordance with the position of the Association of Medical Research Charities on this issue.
7. The grant proposal must be countersigned by the Head of the Department in which the research is to be carried out and by the appropriate Administration Officer responsible for administering the grant.
8. It is the responsibility of the host institution to ensure that the work proposed and the facilities to be made available for the research, meet all Health and Safety requirements. Research involving genetic manipulation must have the approval of the local Genetic Manipulation Advisory Committee. In countersigning the grant proposal, the Head of the Department is taken to give the assurance on behalf of the host institution that those conditions will be met.
9. FOR may defer consideration of an application without prior reference to the applicant and FOR accepts no responsibility for consequences of such delay.
10. Applications for retrospective grants will not be considered.

11. FOR grants are approved for specified work and may provide support for posts and/or running costs/or equipment. Payments will be made against allocations detailed in the formal letter of award and moneys may not be transferred between budget headings without prior written agreement of FOR.
12. All grants are subject to the availability of funds. Support is provided in 3-monthly instalments and the grantee will be required each year to provide both a progress report and updated financial requirements.
13. Grantees must inform FOR of the exact date on which the research programme is implemented.
14. FOR does not act as employer. The host institution is responsible and liable for issue of contracts and compliance with employment statutes. Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing in this Clause 14 FOR accepts no responsibility for contracts of employment extending beyond the defined grant period.
15. FOR will honour nationally agreed pay awards and the host institution is not required to seek permission to implement such awards. FOR will consider written requests for additional salary costs for promotion of staff funded by FOR grants where promotion or merit awards have been approved by the host institution's normal procedures.
16. Should the grantee move to an alternative institution during the tenure of the grant then FOR has the right to:
 - (a) continue to fund the grant to either the host institution or the alternative institution on the terms set out herein; or
 - (b) renegotiate the terms of the grant with either the host institution and/or the alternative institution and, if agreement is reached, continue to fund the grant on the new terms; or
 - (c) terminate the grant pursuant to Clause 4.
17. Suspension of a grant, at the request of the grantee will only be agreed in exceptional circumstances. Suspension may not be for longer than four months and there must be no increased financial implications for FOR.
18. In the event of a project being terminated prematurely by the grantee or host institution, written notification must be given to FOR by the grantee or the host institution. FOR will not be liable for costs incurred due to failure to inform FOR of the termination of the project.
19. Applications for extension of a grant or for renewal of the grant for a further period (consistent with Clause 2 above) must be made in good time and be accompanied by a report on past work. FOR accepts no responsibility for any costs incurred by failure to make such an application.

20. Items of equipment purchased with FOR funds normally become the property of the host institution on termination of the grant. FOR reserves the right, however, to transfer such equipment to another institution if, in the opinion of FOR, it is required to carry out another FOR supported project.
21. In addition to reports required in Clauses 12 and 19, FOR may request a report at any time. A final report is required for all grants within 3 months of the end of the grant.
22. FOR expects grantees to promulgate results of research which it funds in the normal manner, for example, by publications and presentations to meetings (but see Clause 26 below). FOR cannot accept responsibility for the validity of the results nor for any statement made by the authors in the publication notwithstanding the receipt of a pre-print or reprint of the publication. FOR requires that before publication, work undergoes the normal procedures of the host institution to ensure the validity and suitability of the research for general publication. All publications will be subject to FOR's publication policy from time to time in force. The responsibility for publication remains with the authors.
23. Studies involving human subjects represents a special case, especially if the publication of the results enables individuals to gain knowledge about their personal state which they would otherwise not have had. In any clinical study where this is a possibility FOR requires this matter to have been addressed in the protocol and discussed with the Local Research Ethical Committee. FOR requires reassurance that a mechanism is in place for human subjects to be made aware of the results and the implications for them personally before publication. In this context communication with their GP or the consultant entering them into the trial (with a clear indication of their responsibility for communicating to the patient) will be deemed to be sufficient. FOR also expects that procedures exist for dealing with the consequences arising from such a process.
24. Any proposals involving studies on human subjects will only be considered if accompanied by a formal statement that the proposed study has the approval of the local Clinical Ethical Committee.
25. It is the responsibility of the host institution to ensure that, for work involving animal experimentation, all Home Office and other Regulations are being fully complied with. FOR requires the applicant to state clearly that all workers involved with animal studies are covered by both project and personal licences.
26. (a) Grantees are required to inform the FOR before publication, or any form of presentation in public by submitting a pre-print at the pre-publication stage and indication of the date of publication, of any results produced from FOR-funded work which might be suitable for commercial exploitation, whether patentable or not. FOR reserves the right, which shall not be exercised unreasonably, to delay publication until details of the exploitation have been decided upon by FOR.

- (b) FOR shall not claim ownership of the patent and all other industrial and intellectual property rights of whatsoever nature and any scientifically useful or commercially exploitable material forming part of or relating to any invention arising from work carried out under the grant (the "Intellectual Property Rights") but shall be entitled to a share of any proceeds of exploitation of the Intellectual Property Rights so as to fairly reflect the contribution of FOR to the programme of work giving rise to the Intellectual Property Rights
27. Travel grants are available to FOR grantees and staff funded by a FOR grant to cover travel, conference fees and expenses. Specific application, in writing, is required for a travel supplement. Conference fees do not form part of the recurrent costs of a FOR grant.
28. In any oral or written report or publication of work carried out under a FOR grant, the author must acknowledge the support of FOR.
